NEW ZEALAND

A land of contrast from subtropical golden beaches to majestic mountains towering above glacier carved fjords.

Self-drive Tips

To see the best of New Zealand, explore both the North and South Islands which are separated by Cook Strait. A regular inter-island ferry service connects the two islands between Picton and Wellington, so it is easy to leave your vehicle and collect another when travelling inter-island.

There is only one toll road in New Zealand, located North of Auckland between Silverdale and Puhoi, called the Northern gateway toll road.

In winter, some roads may be treacherous due to ice or snow, particularly around mountain passes. Look out for signs indicating slippery surfaces in winter and drive slowly.

In some cases, chains may be required. Make sure you're familiar with how to fit them.
