Self-drive Tips

France road network is well developed. There is almost 8,000 km of motorways and there is usually a toll for use. Autoroutes (Marked on signs with A) are Express highways for which you must pay tolls. Routes Nationales (Marked N) are National motorways for which there are no tolls, often with several lanes. Routes Departementales (Marked D) are smaller scenic country roads with less traffic. International Driving Permit (IDP) is highly recommended for non-European drivers.
